INTERACTIVE ETHICS - FUN, PRACTICAL SOLUTIONS

Ethics has been defined over the years by philosophers, religions and various groups of people. The focus has always been on the standards and values to which people should adhere. Many of the issues we face are black and white but it is the gray areas that challenge us when we try to make the right decisions. Often these gray areas require a difficult choice between two right answers rather than a wrong and a right answer. Although the law helps to some degree sometimes it doesn't go far enough to lead us to that ethical decision. Ethical situations and practical solutions will be the center focus in this program.
